PSALM 5: For You, O LORD, will bless the righteous. With favour you will surround him as with a shield.

TODAY'S WORD

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Corona Virus continues to be the talk of the town. One day everything was normal and suddenly in a matter of weeks the whole world was on lock down to escape from an invisible unknown enemy. Everything that we normally took for granted like the freedom of movement, interactions, business, travel, regular congregational worship, schooling, etc., became controlled. Human beings all over the world no matter their social standing suddenly realized that we have no power over what God has allowed.

Perhaps, one great lesson of the pandemic is that CHRIST is the only solution to any sickness and disease. The Bible assures us that by the stripes on the body of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, we are healed. So, no matter the name of the sickness, its source or gravity, the power in the blood of our LORD JESUS CHRIST will sweep it away.

When the sickness swept through the lands, scientists and medical experts could not stand up to it and people were dying in their hundreds and thousands. But the people of GOD remained safe. For the spiritually discerning ones, CHRIST is the solution over Virus and infectious diseases. His supremacy cannot be surpassed. Where scientists and medical experts failed, He prevailed. By His stripes we are healed. We must not forget that the Corona Virus came suddenly. That is also how the second coming of our LORD JESUS CHRIST will be. That day will come like any other day except it will be unexpected and end differently because we will suddenly hear the trumpet and all grace will expire as we prepare to meet the Master. What lessons are you drawing from this situation as life returns back to normal once again?

FAITH CLINIC

Today we are going to address a thorny question: Why do we believe God can do things for others but can't do anything for us?

In the Bible, the apostle Mark told of a time when a man brought his demon-possessed son to Jesus. The man said to Jesus, "If you can?" in regard to his son's healing. To which Jesus replied, "Everything is possible for one who believes". The boy's father exclaimed, "I do believe; help me overcome my unbelief". Did the man believe or not believe? We can be certain the man believed because he brought his son to Jesus to be healed. That being true, why did he cry out to Jesus to help his unbelief? The father had faith, but in that moment, he realized the faith that had brought him to Jesus wasn't as strong as it should have been. Another way of saying this is that the man believed what Jesus could do for others but wasn't sure that Jesus could do the same thing for him and his son.

We will have times when we momentarily struggle to believe God's promises and have to fight to make His Word an anchor for our soul. This man was one of many in the Bible who were confronted with unbelief. The disciples wrestled with unbelief when people needed to be fed and they only had some fish and bread. When her brother died, Martha found it hard to believe that Jesus could do anything about Lazarus's death. We can't forget Thomas, who, after spending years with Jesus, seeing Him perform miracles, and hearing of the plans for His crucifixion and resurrection, had to touch the holes in Jesus's body before he would completely believe.

Wrestling with believing what God can do, will strengthen our faith. However, when we allow unbelief to

THE MANIFESTATION GIFTS XIII

Text: Hebrews 11:1-13

MEMORY VERSE: "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear." Hebrews 11:3

INTRODUCTION: Today, we shall begin to examine the third category of the manifestation gifts and the gifts under it, beginning with the manifestation gift of faith.

LESSON IV. THE GIFTS OF POWER (OR DEEDS)

The gift of power enables the believers to do the signs, wonders, miracles, special miracles and mighty deeds which Jesus Christ performed during His earthly ministry. They also provide a means by which the Church can put God's will, work and word into action. John 14:11-13.

a. THE MANIFESTATION GIFT OF FAITH

i. WHAT IS FAITH?

1. According to Hebrews 11:1 and Romans 4:21, what is faith?

b. TYPES OF FAITH

i. There are different types of faith recorded in the New Testament.

1. The Faith I Tim. 4:1, Jude 1:3
 - a. This is the truth delivered unto us, which has to do with the righteousness, faithfulness and holiness of God and the life we ought to live. Faith in Jesus Christ. Acts 24:24.
 - b. This faith, we must fight for it not to be taken away from us.
 - c. Many people are departing from this faith by listening to seducing spirits because we are in the last days according to that prophecy.
2. A measure of faith. Rom. 12:3
 - a. This is for service.
3. Faith of Christ. Galatians 2:20
 - a. For our daily deliverance
4. Faith as a fruit of the spirit. Galatians 5:22
 - a. For manifestation and spiritual maturity
5. Faith of God. Mark 11:22 KJV
 - a. To move mountains for miracle and mighty deeds
6. Precious Faith. II Peter 1:1:10-11
 - a. A prerequisite to enter heaven
7. The manifestation gift of faith. I Cor. 12:9
 - a. For the edification of the Church.

ii. INSTRUCTION TO BELIEVERS ABOUT FAITH

1. The Scriptures instruct the believers to:
 - a. Live by faith. Rom. 1:17, Gal. 3:11, Col. 2:6
 - i. How can we live by faith?
 - b. Be steadfast in the faith. I Cor. 16:13
 - i. How can we stand firm in the faith?
 - c. Walk in faith. II Cor. 5:7
 - i. How can a Christian walk in faith?

...no one can say, Jesus is Lord! except in the Holy Spirit.
1 COR. 12:3

CONCLUSION: Today, we have seen what faith is, types of faith and instructions given to believers about faith. In the next lesson, we shall be focusing on the manifestation gift of faith.

2020 is perfect vision. May our sight focus on the Lord and living according to His perfect vision for us.

HELPED BY THE HOLY SPIRIT

While sharing our faith, many of us have been asked questions we didn't feel prepared to answer. The awkwardness of such moments can make us hesitant to share, but that's why it's important to remember we're not on our own.

Knowing we would need encouragement in such situations, Jesus told His followers, "But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I said to you" (John 14:26).

Don't forget that the omniscient Spirit of God lives within every Christian, and He knows the best way to respond to any comment or question. But for Him to "bring to ... remembrance" the truths of Scripture, we have responsibility to spend time in the Bible regularly. Then the word of Christ can "richly dwell within" us (Col. 3:16).

When we run into questions for which we don't have the answer, it's fine to say, "I don't know, but I'll look into it." And there may be times that others approach spiritual topics with hostility.

Then, remember Paul's wisdom: "Let your speech always be with grace ... so that you will know how you should respond to each person" (Col. 4:6).

Gracious words and a winsome attitude reflect Christlikeness, even in those moments when you might not have an answer on the tip of your tongue.

Child of God, grace is the flavour that adds colour to your labour. Therefore, I pray for you this morning that the grace of God will abide with you always, the Favour of God will be upon you in whatever you do. Your resources and the blessings of God upon your life will not be used for trouble. You shall remain Blessed together with your house hold. You will have reasons to testify of God's goodness through Jesus Christ our Lord. I pray for you that wherever your destiny helpers are, the Lord Almighty will shine his light on them and bring them to you now. God will silence all your mockers and they will come and bow to you. In Jesus Name. Amen. May the Lord increase you

Let us never rest until we know and feel that we are reconciled to God. Let it not content us to go to Church, use means of grace, and be reckoned Christians, without knowing whether our sins are pardoned, and our souls justified.

Let us seek to know that we are one with Christ, and Christ in us—that our iniquities are forgiven, and our sins covered. Then, and then only, may we lie down in peace, and look forward to judgment without fear. The time is short. We are traveling on to a day when our lot for eternity must be decided. Let us give diligence that we may be found safe in that day. The souls that are found without Christ shall be cast into a hopeless prison.

THE FOUNTAIN YOUTHS

OVERCOMERS

Who put Jesus on the cross?

Christ's death on the cross was a very unusual situation. He was the Christ, the One chosen and anointed by God to be our Saviour. He perfectly glorified God.

terrible death on a Roman cross, forsaken by His friends, His disciples, and by God Himself.

Crucifixion was the most shameful and the most painful death ever devised, and it was reserved for the worst of criminals. Think of God's Son being put to death in such a shameful way!

Who put Jesus on the cross? We might point to Judas, who betrayed the Lord for thirty pieces of silver. We might point to those who delivered Jesus to the Roman governor, Pilate, and demanded that He be put to death for blasphemy. We might point to Pilate, who knew that Jesus was innocent; yet he lacked the courage to go against the crowd, but gave in to them and sentenced Jesus to be crucified. But none of these put Jesus on the cross.

Who put Jesus on the cross? The surprising answer to this question is this: God put His Son on the cross! It was because of our sins that God put His Son on the cross. God took all of our sins and laid them on His Son.

Jesus Himself chose to go to the cross. Jesus said, "Therefore does My Father love Me, because I lay down my life... No man takes it from Me, but I lay it down of Myself..." (John 10:17-18).

Two things caused God to put His Son on the cross: 1) Our sins, and 2) God's love for sinners. Speaking of Christ, the Bible says, "Surely He has borne Our griefs, and carried our sorrows... He was wounded for Our transgressions, He was bruised for Our iniquities; the chastisement of Our peace was upon Him...." Isaiah 53:4-5

It was because of our sins—my sins and your sins—that God put Jesus on the cross. The Bible says, "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned everyone to his own way; and the LORD has laid on Him the iniquity [sins] of us all" (Isaiah 53:6).

When our sins were laid on Christ, God's wrath against sin was poured out on Christ. God's wrath was not against Christ personally. He was never more precious to His Father than when He hung on the cross, for He was doing His Father's will.

TURN BACK TO GOD

When God Says No To Our Prayers

WHEN GOD SAYS NO

"When the righteous cry for help, the Lord hears, and delivers them out of all their troubles" - Psalm 34:17

Unanswered Prayers

We've all experienced those occasions when our prayers seem to have gone "unanswered". Given the many comments in the Bible regarding the Lord hearing our prayers, could there really be such a thing as "unanswered prayer"? While the obvious answer is "no", why is it that we sometimes ask but don't receive?

In order to answer this question, let's first be honest about what we mean by "unanswered prayer". Basically, when we use this term, we're not saying God didn't answer, but rather that His answer was "no". This leads to another important question (and one that IS answerable), "Why does God sometimes say 'no'?" Let's open up the Bible and look at some reasons why the Lord may deny our requests:

Lack of humility

Sometimes we feel that we know what's best and proceed to tell God what we need. Even worse, we get angry when He doesn't answer fast enough or in the way that we want. One of my favourite examples of humble prayer is the Syrophenician woman whose daughter was possessed by a demon (Mark 7:24-30).

She is approaching Jesus humbly, as a beggar. When the Lord responded to her plea with "It is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs", she was not fazed and replied, "Yes Lord, yet even the dogs under the table eat the children's crumbs". She didn't complain, she wasn't offended and, more importantly, she didn't give up. Instead, she continued to ask, humbly trusting in the Lord's ability to help. The result? Her daughter was healed.

Lack of faith

When the disciples came to Jesus and asked why they were unsuccessful in casting a demon out of a boy, the Lord's response was blunt and to the point – "Because of your little faith" (Matthew 17:20)! When we approach Jesus with a request, do we really believe in His power? Maybe, but that can change in a hurry, especially when a sick relative for whom we're praying starts to take a turn for the worse.

How important is faith when we pray? According to Jesus, "whatever you ask for in prayer, you will receive, if you have faith" (Matthew 21:22). Does that mean that every time God doesn't grant our request it's because our faith is lacking? No, but it could be a contributing factor and should be addressed.

Before you panic about your weak faith, however, remember that faith is a gift and you can't increase it on your own. What you can do is ask the Lord to increase your faith, just like the father of the boy with a mute spirit, "I do believe; help my unbelief!" (Mark 9:24)

Asking for the wrong things

Let's be honest, sometimes we pray for the wrong things. Even though it may be unintentional, we often ask for things that will increase our comfort and could harm our relationship with the Lord.

That new job might pay more money and help us to better provide for our family, but it may require us to work extra hours which could cut into our family time. The increased earnings and security could also cause us to rely less on God, thinking that we are in total control of our lives.

READERS' DIGEST.

A young man saw his primary school teacher at a wedding ceremony. He went to greet him with all respect and admiration!! He said to him: "can you still recognize me Sir?"

'I don't think so!!' said the Teacher, 'could you please remind me how we met?'

The student recounted: "I was your Student in the 3rd Grade, I stole a Wrist watch belonging to my then classmate because it was unique and fascinating.

My Classmate came to you crying that his Wrist Watch had been stolen and you ordered all Students in the class to stand on a straight line, facing the wall with our hands up and our eyes closed so you could check our pockets.

At this point, I became jittery and terrified of the outcome of the search. The shame I will face after other Students discovered that I stole the Watch, the opinions my Teachers will form about me, the thought of being named a ' thief' till I leave the School and my Parents' reaction when they get to know about my action.

All these thoughts flowing across my heart, when suddenly it was my turn to be checked. I felt your hand slipped into my pocket and you brought out the Watch. I was gripped with fear, expecting the worse to be announced. I was surprised I didn't hear anything, but Sir, you continued searching other Students' pockets till you got to the last person.

When the search was over, you asked us to open our eyes and sit on our Chairs. I was afraid to sit because I was thinking you will call me out soon after everyone was seated. But to my amazement, you showed the watch to the class, gave it to the owner and you never mentioned the name of the one who stole the watch. You didn't say a word to me, and you never mentioned the story to anyone.

Throughout my stay in the school, no Teacher or Student knew what happened. This incident naturally taught me a great lesson and I resolved in my heart never to get myself involved in taking whatever is not mine.

I thought to myself, you saved my dignity." "Do you remember the story now Sir? You can't simply forget this story Sir!!"

(((Golden Wisdom)))

A farmer went to the field one day to cultivate. During the work, he glanced at the mango tree and saw a big ripe mango he plucked it.

An idea occurred to him not to eat this mango, but to take it home to his wife whom he loves so much, even though he was starving.

When he got home, he called his wife and gave the mango to show her his love.

Very happy with this precious gift, the woman thought directly of her child who had gone to school.

She took the mango, thanked her husband sincerely and reassured her that she would eat it afterwards.

The woman hide the mango and decided to give it to her son as soon as he returns from school to show him her love.

As soon as the child came back from school, the mother gave him this mango with a lot of joy in her heart.

The child thanked his mother warmly for this precious gift and told his mother that he would eat it later.

He too resolved to hide this mango and make a surprise gift to his father who pays his school fees, believing that the Dad knows nothing about this mango.

In the evening while everyone was eating the family meal, the child said to his father:

"One minute dad, I will bring you a present because I love you so much".

He ran to his room, took the mango and gave it to his father.

He was surprised to see the same mango he had given to his beloved wife returned back to him again.

Without any comment, he asked for a knife and shared it equally among the three of them (himself, his wife and his child). They all ate this mango with a lot of joy. That's how love works.

When you give love, it comes back to you in another way, because love is the most extraordinary force that

READERS' DIGEST. Why I took my children to a Black Lives Matter protest

Christian author Krish Kandiah was nervous about attending a demonstration in Oxford, but he believes it was the right thing to do.

We have been in lockdown for 83 days when my son interrupts all our afternoon routines with the suggestion that we take part in today's Black Lives Matter protest in Oxford. I am shocked. This is the son who has wanted to become an epidemiologist since he was a teenager. He's been following the political and scientific developments of Covid-19 in fine detail and making sure we have all been fastidious in social distancing, not easy for a family of eight. He's the last one I would have expected to encourage us to join a demonstration under the current restrictions.

I am nervous. I have seen how coronavirus spreads and destroys lives. I have also witnessed the violence erupt on the streets with protestors, police men and women and even horses getting injured in London. But my six children are already tearing up cardboard boxes and creating placards for us: "Black Lives Matter" and "We Demand Justice". That's when my oldest daughter announces she is coming too. She should have been sitting A-Level exams this week but instead she has been sewing face masks and posting them to friends and relatives.

After 83 days I am surprised the car even starts, but we arrive in Oxford within the hour. Still nervous, I also now feel like a criminal in a heist movie, masking up as I walk towards the agreed meeting point.

At 5pm we arrive at the controversial statue of colonist Cecil John Rhodes who overlooks one of the UK's busiest high streets from his perch high on the front of one Oxford University's most prestigious colleges. This city with its world-renowned institutions and global influence should not be endorsing his white supremacist attitudes. Like the toppling of the slave trader Edward Colston's statue in Bristol earlier in the week, it is time for him to go. We need better heroes. I catch sight of four mounted police officers on horseback: they smile as we walk by.

A helicopter hovers ominously overhead. The cyclists and buses now can't get down the street as the crowd is swelling. Despite most of Oxford's student population being long gone it is a very diverse and young turn out. On the evidence of banners and overheard snippets of conversation, they are well-informed. Everyone is calm and polite, keeping space between each other as best they can. I get a text from home. My other children are watching on a live feed. If they can do school and birthday parties and P.E. virtually, why shouldn't they protest this way too?

The organisers start up their PA system. The activists are skilled speakers and for the next hour there is no pause for breath, not even a stutter or a mispronunciation. They have chants ready that are instant earworms: "De-colonise. De-De-De-Colonise". They speak with passion and insight, gauging and engaging the crowd well enough to intersperse their speeches with call and response: "No Justice" they say. "No Peace" we shout back. My introvert children standing beside me don't even hesitate. Back home my youngest children are joining in equally enthusiastically.

Racial identity, inequality and injustice is a common topic of discussion around our dinner table. We are a mixed-race family with birth, adopted and fostered children: between us we can claim a variety of heritages including Indian, Jamaican, Irish, French and Sri Lankan. The 30 other once-fostered children that we have looked after over the years join us from their treasured photo frames on the bookshelf and add to the diversity.

The murder of George Floyd has incensed all of us. Hearing him beg for his life, explain that he couldn't breathe and then call out to his dead mother, while onlookers begged for his life, has rightly shocked the world.

On this occasion it doesn't feel enough just to be angry over a bowl of spaghetti at dinnertime. We have to do more than simply adapt our home to embrace the vulnerable and marginalised. We need to shout louder. We need to make a public statement. We want the US authorities to hear that our family takes personally and seriously the issue of racial injustice. We want the UK government to listen to our plea to confront institutional racism. We want the world to acknowledge that black lives matter.

We protest by shouting. Then we protest in silence. For 8 minutes and 46 seconds, the exact length of time the white police officer knelt on George Floyd's neck, we sit on the ground with arm raised in a show of solidarity with his death. It is an incredibly long time. For 8 minutes and 46 seconds I think of others doing the same around the world. I am relieved to see that even the few protesters who have come to cause trouble are taking the knee. I wonder if the man in front of us wearing the denim jacket sporting the words "Vandalism: beautiful as a rock in a cop's face" printed neatly in white letters on his back is considering the words he can see staring him in the face on another placard: "Silence is Violence". I begin to hope this display of public feeling will make a difference beyond this street this day. Then I remember George Floyd's family in the wake of his funeral. For 8 minutes and 46 seconds I think of the man gasping for breath and pray that something good can come out of something so tragic.

The Black Lives Matter protests around the world have to change things. Not just the removal of statues or the withdrawing of programmes from iPlayer or Netflix, or the influencing of an election result across the Atlantic, but the global conversation towards racial equality. Football players are taking the knee. Tea companies are joining the fight.

I want my family to be part of this. I believe it is an opportunity for us to demonstrate the radical grace of God that offers love, mercy and compassion to all. I believe one day that gathered around the throne of God will people from every tribe and tongue and so making sure we speak up for Black lives should matter to us because they matter to God. I have taken my children to the protest, not because I want them to witness history but because I want them to be involved in changing it.

LAST WORD

If you consider your experience, you will realize that no matter how long you have been a seeking Christian, you still have the sense deep within that you are separated from God's presence by something, mainly by your natural life, your old man, your self...In order that we may be reconciled to God in full, the Father exposes our natural life and unveils our real situation to us. As a result, we condemn our natural being and apply the cross subjectively. Then as our natural man is crossed out, we experience the second step of reconciliation. In this step the veil of our natural man is rent so that we may live in God's presence.

"Imagine yourself a living house. God comes in to rebuild that house. At first, perhaps you understand what He is doing. He is getting the drains right and stopping the leaks in the roof and so on; you knew that those jobs needed doing, so you are not surprised. But presently He starts knocking the house about in a way that hurts abominably and does not seem to make sense. What on earth is He up to? The explanation is that He is building quite a different house from the one you thought of; throwing out a new wing here, putting on an extra floor there, running up towers, making courtyards. You thought you were going to be made into a decent little cottage, but He is building a palace."

Wait for the Lord;
be strong and let your heart take courage; yes, wait for the Lord.

PRAYER POINTS

1. From today, whatever and whoever is against me shall be for me in the Name of Jesus.
2. My Father, let my new name invoke grace, favour and unlimited opportunities.
3. Every wicked plan to bring shame and disgrace, receive your shame and disgrace.
4. I shall pursue every pursuer from today and be victorious over all in Jesus' Name.
5. My Father, activate my new name, the name that will make demons tremble.
6. My Father, let my new name speak for me and take me to places of favour in Jesus' Name.
7. My Father, let my divine destiny be activated on a new level because of my new name.
8. I shake off every satanic padlock of limitation that my old name gave me in Name of Jesus.
9. Every satanic voice speaking against my new name, I silence you forever.
10. O God, arise and destroy every spirit of darkness to prevent my enthronement.
11. O God, arise and trouble all those troubling my enthronement in Jesus' Name.
12. Every padlock keeping me stagnant, break by fire.
13. Every wicked power travelling from place to place to curse me, you will never come back in the Name of Jesus.
14. I wash off every evil mark placed on me with the Blood of Jesus.

and I'll trust you.

God says... Trust me and I'll show you.

Psalms 126:6

Quote of the Week:

'NO COAT IS LARGE ENOUGH TO HIDE YOUR SIN; NO HAND IS QUICK ENOUGH TO SLIP IT UNDER THE TABLE AND MISS THE ALL-SEEING EYE OF GOD.'

A PRAYER FOR THE COMING WEEK

May God be with you today and guide you and your loved ones every step of the way. May God bless every day of your New Week and keep you safe.

This is gonna be a "GOD MADE A WEEK" kind of week.

Wishing you all a Blessed New Week full of Love, happiness Joy and Good Health. May God bless you all!
